DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 9/12/2007 and 12/7/2007 have been entered.
2. Applicant's arguments are addressed on a per section basis. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this Action can be found in a prior Office Action. Any rejections not reiterated in this action have been withdrawn as being obviated by the amendment of the claims and/or applicant's arguments.

Claims 27-32 are currently pending and are examined herein.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 1635

3. Claims 27-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO 95/32733 (Johnston et al., previously of record) in view of Chanas et al. (J. Gen. Virol., cited by Applicants in the IDS 11/12/2002).

Johnston et al. teach a method wherein an VEE virus which encodes and expresses a heterologous immunogen is administered to a subject as a vaccine to protect the subject against disease wherein the subject can be a human (e.g. see abstract; page 2, lines 17-30; page 6 line 30 through page 7, line 25).

Johnston et al. do not teach to administer an antibody that specifically binds to the E1 glycoprotein of the VEE along with the VEE.

Chanas teaches that monoclonal antibodies specific for the E1 glycoprotein of Sindbis virus can, at particular concentrations (subneutralizing dilutions) enhance infectivity for macrophage-like cells (e.g., page 7: summary and introduction. Chanas demonstrates this effect by administering a sindbis virus (which is an alphavirus) with the E1 glycoprotein-specific antibodies to a mouse (e.g., see pages 43-44).

Therefore, it would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the teachings of Johnston et al. and Chanas to create a method of using E1 glycoprotein specific antibodies with an VEE that comprises a heterologous sequence in order enhance the infectivity of the VEE in a subject, including a human to with a reasonable expectation of success.

The motivation to combine the references to create claimed invention and is provided by Chanas who teaches that subneutralizing dilutions of E1-glycoprotein antibodies enhance the infectivity of an alphavirus. Furthermore, the fact that the antibodies enhanced infectivity of the sindbis virus in mice demonstrates a reasonable expectation of success that infectivity of the alphavirus taught by Johnston et al. could be enhanced in a subject, including a human, without causing significant pathology.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments, filed 9/12/2007, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 27-32 under 35 USC 103 have been fully considered and are persuasive, in view of the amendment. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made under 35 USC 103 for the reasons indicated herein.
